Based on the opening dates, our Chardham tours generally commence sometime in the month of May, and are operational from May-June (pre-monsoon season) & September-October (post-monsoon season).

- Q.13: What is Health Advisory?

All of the four dhams are situated at a high altitude, ranging between 8500 ft – 11500 ft. Kedarnath Dham being the highest at 11500 ft. Being at such a high altitude involves exposure to extreme cold, low humidity, increased ultra violet radiations and reduced air pressure and oxygen

Since your Chardham yatra is only for 4 days, the body may not get enough time to acclimatize and adjust to the low oxygen levels, therefore you must not exert yourself, go slow and always catch your breath. If anyone exerts themselves too much too quickly, depending on individual fitness levels, some of the common high altitude sicknesses and their symptoms are listed below:

(1) Acute Mountain Sickness (AMS): AMS is the most common form of mountain sickness and may occur after you ascend to altitudes above 2500 m.

Symptoms: Breathing problems, headache, loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, fatigue, weakness, dizziness and difficulty in sleeping.

(2) High Altitude Cerebral Edema (HACE): HACE is a severe form of AMS and occurs due to swelling of the brain tissue which may eventually impair the brain. The illness often manifests itself at night and may result in coma/ death within hours.

Symptoms: Breathing problems, headache, fatigue, visual impairment, bladder dysfunction, bowel dysfunction, disorientation and partial paralysis.

(3) High Altitude Pulmonary Edema (HAPE): HAPE results in respiratory failure due to accumulation of fluid in the lungs. HAPE manifests itself at night (typically the second night of climbing in high altitude areas), progresses rapidly and may lead to fatality within hours.

Symptoms: Shortness of breath even when resting, persistent dry cough, bright red stained sputum, weakness, fatigue, drowsiness, chest tightness, congestion and increased heart rate. Younger people are held to be more susceptible to this ailment as, in exuberance, they are inclined to over exert while trekking.

Q.14: What are high altitude Do's & Don'ts?

Do's

- Take Palkis/Horses instead of trekking to avoid high altitude sickness.
- Take short breaks to catch your breath when tired.
- Notice any symptoms such as extreme tiredness, headache, nausea, loss of appetite or vomiting.
- Saree is NOT a suitable dress for the Yatra. Salwar Kameez, pant-shirt or a track suit will be better. Ladies who are more than 6 week pregnant shall not be allowed to undertake the pilgrimage.
- Keep spare clothes and eatables in a suitable water proof bag.
- Carry some cold cream/Vaseline/sunscreen to protect your hands /face against sunburn etc.

- Keep in your pocket your identity card with emergency contact number, incase of an emergency.

Don'ts

- Don't exert yourself too much and go out of breath.
- Don't ignore any symptoms such as extreme tiredness, headache, nausea, loss of appetite or vomiting.
- Don't stop at places which are marked by warning notices.
- Don't use slippers. Only wear trekking / sports shoes with laces.
- Don't attempt any short cuts on the route as doing so would be dangerous.
- Don't trek alone. Always stay together as a group. Your mobile network may not work.

Q.15: How is the weather & what to wear?

PRE-MONSOON SEASON

- In the summer months of May –June, weather remains sunny during the day & approx. 5 degrees at night.

POST-MONSOON SEASON

- During Sep-Oct, temperatures remain pleasant during the day. However, they drop to around 0-5 degrees at night.
- We provide disposable raincoats to our passengers in case of rain.
- At Kedarnath & Badrinath, temperatures may suddenly fall below 0 degrees at night. Therefore, it is advisable to carry clothes for cold weather during these months.

In all cases, wear 4-5 layers of clothes even if you feel the weather is sunny because the cool air may enter inside and impact the health. Advice is to wear Thermal inner wear then fleece then shirt, Kurta, Tshirt and then 2 layers of jackets. Remember to cover your throat part, ears, nose, head with good thermals.

Keep extra pairs of thermal socks on top of usual socks to avoid entering cool air.
